Miami, Florida – Interior designer Ania Nozewnik-Agárdy is proud to announce the release of Cuba Inesperada, a visually stunning coffee table book bound in elegant linen that offers a rare glimpse into Cuba’s hidden interiors and enchanting patios. Inspired by her exploratory visits to the island, it captures spaces throughout three magnificent cities (Cienfuegos, Trinidad, and Havana) few have ever seen or imagined.

Blending exquisite photography with Cuba’s rich architectural history, Cuba Inesperada showcases the unexpected beauty found beyond Cuba’s well-known facades and today’s crumbling structures. Accompanied with narrative and photo captions in Spanish, it is a tribute to what Cuba used to be. With an eye for detail and a passion for design, Ania presents an intimate exploration of architectural heritage, color, and culture, making this book a must-have for design enthusiasts, travelers, and collectors alike. "Cuba Inesperada is a culmination of my personal journey to discover not only the restored iconic treasures, but also the most hidden interiors of Cuba, a place where history and artistry converge in ways that are truly mesmerizing and uniquely Cuban," says Ania. The prologue was written by the world-renown and award-winning New York Times bestseller author, Leonardo Padura. The majority of proceeds from sales through various charitable events will be donated to Caritas Cuba.

Published by Ediciones Fiduc in Argentina, Cuba Inesperada is 220 pages in length and is available in hardcover. This limited-edition book can be purchased through Books and Books in Miami, Florida.
